

NATIONAL COSTUMES

1. I'd like to describe the national costume of Scotland. It consists of a kilt, a tweed jacket, special white stockings, and special boots.

Kilts can be of different colour. It depends on the clan. Scottish people wear their national costumes on special occasions.

2. Sari is a traditional women's costume of India. It's a cloth, that can be from four to nine metres length. It's draped over the body in different ways. They have a lot of names and women wear them every day and on holidays in India.

3. Tzipao is a traditional dress of Chinese women. It is rather long with a short stand-up collar. Tzipao is a tight dress. The colours are traditional. Nowadays women put on these dresses for national holidays and weddings in China.
